Slashed Throat, Wax Figure of Victim Exhibits

eral ways. Every fingerprint man has his own way. The height of the arch, width of the axis and so forth.

Then followed a long technical discussion that made the jury blink dizzily. Arches, whorls, bifurcations, loops, ridges and other terms were described while the audience yawned.

McCarte Rebuked

Judge Parker rebuked McCarte for his method of questioning Faurot. The court asked:—

"Will you go on with your questions? You are making a speech!" Simpson laughed openly at his adversary's discomfort. He said:—

Willie Stevens Charles Hayes

"Sure, we've objected to his clowning, but it hasn't done any good."

McCarte examined Faurot on several small prints, while the expert was eager to discuss a large transparency made of film, which indicate by superimposition that Willie's prints and those on Dr. Hall's card are identical.

"Ah, that is the grand poo-bah!" McCarte exclaimed while Faurot grinned.

McCarte indicated that defense experts would testify that there were one or more "ridge" differences in Willie Stevens's fingerprints.

The lawyer asked Faurot if such differences would not establish that the prints on the card and those of Willie were not the same.

Might Change Appearance

The expert explained that in a latent print the soft surface of the fingertip, depending on the pressure applied, would give the same finger a slightly different appearance, but would not change the impression so that it could not be identified.

McCarte had Faurot admit that a bit of dust on the finger might block the impression of one of the tiny ridges in the flesh when it was transferred to paper.

Q. Won't you tell me also that the presence of some foreign body such as dust might also create a ridge?

Justice Parker interrupted at this point to ask if there was evidence that dust might create a ridge.

McCarte explained that Faurot in his direct testimony had admitted several discrepancies between the print on the calling card and those taken from the fingers of Willie.

The expert had said that dust might have caused them, and that they could be explained away. McCarte was attacking this theory when court recessed.

LAW TO KILL ATTACKERS OF DUCE UP IN ITALY

ROME, Nov. 9 (By U. P.).—The Chamber of Deputies convened today to enact the death penalty law for persons who attempt to assassinate Premier Mussolini, the regent, the King, the Queen or the Crown Prince.

Il Duce was given an ovation when he appeared at his rose and laurel covered desk. The entire diplomatic corps was present.

Ex-Wife Again Sics Court On Brewster and Corliss

More legal trouble loomed in the Supreme Court today for Eugene V. Brewster, magazine publisher, when Mrs. Eleanor V. Brewster, whom he divorced in Mexico recently to marry Corliss Palmer, the Southern girl, for whom he left his wife, won a decision from Justice Levy ordering an accounting of Brewster's Publications, Inc.

At the same time Brewster narrowly escaped punishment for contempt of court. He was saved only by the fact that process servers had been unable to serve him with an order for examination before trial in the accounting suit before he left for the Pacific Coast. Previously he had agreed to appear.

The court, after hearing the contention of counsel for Mrs. Brewster that the assets of the corporation are being dissipated, said he was not willing at this time to appoint a receiver as asked. He announced he would soon name a referee to hear the accounting proceeding.

Mrs. Eleanor Brewster bases her accounting suit on a separation agreement, dated February 21, 1923, under which Brewster agreed to pay her $200 a week for the support of herself and son, Virgil, six and a half years, Brewster depositing half the stock of his corporation to guarantee the payments.

She asserted that after Brewster became infatuated with Corliss he put her and several of her relatives on his payroll.

HUNT HIT-RUN DRIVER IN DEATH OF QUEENS MAN

Police of Astoria precinct in Queens sent out an alarm today for a motorist who ran down and killed Patrick Mallon, 60, of 234 13th Ave., Long Island City, at Queensboro Bridge Plaza this morning.

Instead of stopping after the accident, the motorist put on speed and escaped over the bridge to Manhattan.

Fall and Doheny Plead Tomorrow In Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (By U. P.).—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, will come before the District of Columbia Supreme Court for arraignment tomorrow.

Fall, recovering from an earlier

illness, is here, and Doheny arrives today, to plead not guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government, a charge brought after the "little black bag" incident, and other revelations of the Senate oil investigation of three years ago.

Seized as Firebug After 3 Blazes Put Scores in Danger

Following three fires in tenements last night which threatened scores of lives, Anthony Alloy, 40, of 1351 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, said to have served time in Sing Sing prison for arson, today was held without bail on a charge of first degree arson.

He was arrested by Patrolman Edward Weiss of Wilson Avenue Station, Brooklyn, as he emerged from 208 Irving Ave., Brooklyn, where fire was discovered. He denied charges of arson made against him by Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy.

A false alarm came in from the B.-M. T. barns at Wyckoff and Myrtle Avenues at 9.35. Twenty minutes later a second alarm came from a three-story tenement at 1434 Myrtle Avenue, near by. At 10.32 fire was found in the cellar at 251 Irving Avenue, and a short time after that at 208 Irving Avenue.
